NO CHANGE IN RIVER LEVEL; LAKE HIGHER

Fox River Valley Still is Facing
Menace of Disastrous Flood

LOCKS AND DAMS MADE SAFE

High Wind Across Lake is Feared — Hundreds Flock
to See River

Water in Lake Winnebago is still rising and will continue to rise for the next several days, it was said this morning by engineers and observers of river conditions. The lake level now is 37 inches above the crest of the Menasha dam, an increase of 3 inches in the last 2 days. Water still is running into the lake faster than it is being discharged.

Engineers say the rising level of the lake means a corresponding rise in the level of the river so there is little probability that the flood condition soon will subside. A strong south wind across the lake now is the greatest danger. It would cause a surge of water in the river which might cause incalculable damage.

The river rose during the night to the highest point in its history but it subsided slightly and this morning is about the same level as last night. This rise and fall in the level of the river is due to the direction and intensity of the wind across the lake.

WORK ON LOCKS

A large number of men are working on the locks at Menasha repairing damage that was caused when water washed over the walls and started to carry away the soft filling. Flashboards and sandbags have been erected to hold back the water. The locks were in rather grave danger for a time, it was said.

Engineers are working on damage from high water has been minimized because mill and power owners have "been on their toes" and have worked with government engineers. It is said they realized the grave danger to their properties and to navigation almost from the start of the high water and have devoted all of their energies toward strengthening weak places and assisting in every way possible.

Hundreds of people are expected to flock to the river on Sunday to see the current of water rushing over the dams and swirling between the banks. The upper dam is one of the most awe-inspiring sights in the country. The volume of water going over the dam is so great that the fall has been reduced by more than 50 per cent. At Neenah the fall over the dam has been cut to about two feet.

SLAYER TO PLEAD UNWRITTEN CODE

Killer of J. Powers Declares Playwright Stole Love of His Wife

By United Press Leased Wire.
Dallas, Tex., June 1.—Dwight Soderman, formerly of Waukegan, Ill., indicted for killing J. Powers, playwright and member of a famous Kentucky family following an alleged letter from Mrs. Soderman declaring "he stole my love" will base his defense on the unwritten law, his attorneys indicated Saturday.

"The love theft" was committed "not too many times, because I knew I would lose the love of him," the alleged letter from Mrs. Soderman to her husband declared, according to extracts given out by his attorneys.

"He broke up my home," Soderman told a detective who struck up his gun after the shooting in a crowded hotel lobby Tuesday.

Mrs. Soderman's alleged "death letter" referred to the "first wife party" from which she declared she broke to find her husband in a room with Powers' former army major and author of several stage plays.

WIFE WILL TESTIFY
"He defended his home with a gun—the only way open to him—the unwritten law," a statement from counsel declared. "His wife's testimony will clear him."

Soderman will go to trial May 8.

TRAVELING MEN ELECT OFFICERS

By United Press Leased Wire.
Milwaukee — Max Breslauer was chosen president of the Wisconsin division of the Travelers Protective association at the annual banquet here Friday night.

Other officers are: Ted Pritchard, Fond du Lac, first vice president; Roy Benjamin, Waukegan, second vice president; P. M. Blum, Green Bay, third vice president; and William F. Schadt, Milwaukee, secretary and treasurer.

George To Sing When Travelers Crave To Sleep

By United Press Leased Wire.
Chicago—Wildcat fed his bones to Lilly Saturday and bought a hymn book.

The Pullman company has ordered that no longer shall passengers be lulled to their rest by the tune of "come on seven"—sweet music to the porters ears.

The nine thousand negro porters employed by the company have been instructed to take up singing lessons, so the gentleman in lower 10 can be entertained with the humming of "Swanee River," if he so desires.

Major Clark Smith, noted chorus trainer, has been employed to get the harmony organized.

Three special trains leaving Chicago Saturday for the Knights Templar convalescence at New Orleans were manned with three crews of tenors, second tenors, baritone and basses.

The county was organized into eight districts and a grand ruckus will be held each year with competition for the champion chorus.

Parades will be staged, medals and trophies given out and noble rations furnished for all the boys.

G. O. P. SENATORS OPEN DRIVE FOR SOLDIER BONUS

Finance Committee Republicans
Map Out Program to Pass Measure

By United Press Leased Wire.
Washington—The spring drive of the soldier bonus will be launched Saturday in the senate.

Finance committee Republicans met in Senator McCumber's office to map out a program, the object of which is to be the final enactment of bonus legislation by early summer. They were determined to set at rest immediately reports that the bonus would be allowed to become a political football in congress, to be kicked back and forth in partisan debate without any real progress being made.

The Republicans have been fully aroused to the threat of Democratic leaders to take over the bonus legislation as a Democratic campaign asset. Accordingly, Republicans are now determined that they will meet the bonus squarely, act on it without delay, and take the consequence, whatever they may be.

PLANS GAINS SUPPORT
They are also determined that the bonus bill must not impose new taxes on the people at this time. It must, however, carry the means for paying the ex-service men entitled to its benefits. Therefore, the plan of issuing treasury certificates of indebtedness is daily gaining more support. In the end, money must be raised somewhere to retire the certificates if they are issued.

But many Republicans, including Senator McCumber, chairman of the finance committee, believe that other means can be found than taxes.

WIDON IS DENIED ANY COMPENSATION

Christian Scientist Refuses to Call Physician and Dies from Injury

By United Press Leased Wire.
Madison — Anna Miller, Milwaukee, widow of Ferdinand Miller, believed in Christian Science who died from blood poisoning following an injury incurred in the employ of the Milwaukee Brush Manufacturing company, was denied compensation by the industrial commission Saturday.

Miller refused the service of a physician following the infection of an injury to his shin, the decision Saturday said. He was attended by a licensed Christian Science practitioner.

The exemption from compensation was the first case of its kind that has come before the commission. The 1919 legislature amended the workmen's compensation bill so that employers, in most cases, would pay the expense of a practitioner in Christian Science, the same as a physician.

There was an exception made in the legislation, however, in case the employer filed notice prior to the injury declaring he did not wish to be bound to pay for such service.

Charleston, W. Va. — Up here in the peaceful hills overlooking the beautiful Shenandoah valley, far from the hatreds and feuds of the West Virginia mine war country, more than 200 miners were gathered Saturday awaiting trials starting Monday on charges ranging from assault to murder and treason—the outgrowth of the miners' march on Logan county last summer.

Upon the outcome of their trials in the ancient courthouses where John Brown of Kansas, Harpers' Ferry raider, was sentenced to death more than sixty years ago will rest to a considerable degree the future of unionism and "operatorism" in this state of strife.

POLITICAL POT IN WISCONSIN IS WARMING UP

"Committee of 44" to Have Complete Ticket in Field for Primary

Madison — Enough candidates on the "Committee of 44" tickets for state offices had announced themselves today to complete a state ticket to oppose the already announced La Follette Progressive ticket in the primaries this fall.

The candidacy of David Summer-ville, assemblyman from Ladysmith, for the nomination for secretary of state, subject to the approval of the state convention of "Committee of 44" delegates in Milwaukee on June 1, was the most recent candidate, being announced today.

CATLIN A CANDIDATE
Other "sane progressive" leaders who have declared that they wish their names put before the state convention are Attorney General William J. Morgan, for governor, and Mark Catlin, Appleton, for attorney general.

State Treasurer Henry Johnson said today he would not announce his candidacy for nomination for reelection, but would let the state convention of the "Committee of 44" take the initiative.

Edward Dithmar, for three terms lieutenant-governor of Wisconsin, indicated in an interview last week that he would take any position on the state ticket determined by the convention June 1, "if it would help the ticket."

Several other announcements of candidacies are expected to make the competition in the June convention at Milwaukee quite keen, however, although the above-mentioned five would "fill the ticket." The convention is also expected to pick an opponent for Senator La Follette's campaign for reelection to the United States Senate, although no candidates have yet announced themselves for this position.

There is said to be some sentiment among the "stalwarts" in favor of not putting a candidate in the field against La Follette on the ground that lack of an opponent might rob the senior senator of a "target," and part of his "thunder."

UNEMPLOYMENT IS ON DECREASE IN STATE INDUSTRIES

Number of Workers in Factories and on Farms Show Big Increase

By United Press Leased Wire.
Madison—Increases in the number of employees in nearly every branch of Wisconsin industry were registered during the month of March, the industrial commission reported Saturday.

The number of workers in agriculture jumped 15 per cent compared with the figure of the previous month; miners 41 per cent; factories 4 per cent; building 3 per cent and retail trade 3 per cent.

The cost of living over the country is still 55 per cent higher than in July, 1914, the report said.

The increase in the number of factory employees, 13,000 over the figure of June, 1921, when employment conditions first began to improve, was due to the fact that the gain during March was the largest single gain of the period.

IRISH WORKERS IN WAR PROTEST

Remain Idle Until Tuesday in First Anti-Militarism Strike in History

By United Press Leased Wire.
Dublin—Thousands of Irish workers as they quit work Saturday planned to remain idle until next Tuesday in the first anti-militarism strike in history.

The great anti-militarism strike at any party or faction, but is in protest against continuation of civil war. The workers are becoming tired of being awakened in the middle of the night by explosions of grenades and the rattle of machine gun fire. They want peace.

The labor party Saturday announced final plans for the strike, which becomes effective Monday. The current weekend idleness will prevail over Sunday, but on Monday trains will stop running, street cars will halt, newspapers won't publish, the post-office and the telephone system will be dead, doors of business houses will remain closed and hotels won't serve meals. Many people were buying extra supplies of food Saturday to last until Tuesday.

As preparations for the strike went ahead the rebels under Rory O'Connor continued to hold the Four Courts and defy the free state troops to eject them. There was some talk of blowing them out with dynamite but this may precipitate general bloodshed and throw Ireland into chaos.

PERPETUAL ILLUMINATION New Found Substance Burns Forever ERA SEEN BY SCIENTISTS

By United Press Leased Wire.
Princeton, N. J.—The dawning of an era of perpetual illumination was seen by scientist Saturday in an announcement by Prof. E. Newton Harvey of Princeton university that he had developed a continuous cold light, called luciferin.

This is a step which science regards as equal in importance to the invention of the wireless, the telephone, telegraph, phonograph, airplane, automobile and other modern devices. Continuous cold light eventually will do away with all forms of artificial illumination, according to belief of scientists. It will be possible for a man to carry a bottle of light in his pocket. Permanent globes of light will be suspended in the streets in public buildings and in residences.

Just at present the new discovery has not reached anywhere near that stage of development. Exhibited by Professor Harvey, it had the appearance of a small blue flame flickering in a water in a flask. It is just about in the stage of development now that the photograph was when it gave forth but a faint scratchy sound, and the movies were in the days when they were jumpy blurs, hard on the eyes.

The new substance burns forever, with a cold blue light.

Once he succeeded in isolating the luciferin, Prof. Harvey was confronted with the problem of making it permanent. It would glow for a while, then flicker out. This was because it burned only so long as oxygen was applied to it, and the oxygen also had the effect of destroying it. Now Prof. Harvey had perfected a chemical process whereby the oxygen is separated from the luciferin immediately after the contact which produces the light and then joins with it again. This produces continuous light rays, without wearing out the luciferin.

Prof. Harvey's experiments started with fire flies and other insects which gave forth light. However, he took his greatest step when in Japan he discovered a shell fish the size of a flea which radiated a blue glow. Millions of these made the sea blaze like fire. He obtained a quantity of these crustaceans and used them in further experiments which led to the isolation of luciferin.

FRANK IS NAMED DELEGATE TO U. S. CHAMBER MEETING

Appleton Will Send Two Representatives to Big Washington
Business Gathering

J. P. Frank, national councilor of Appleton Chamber of Commerce was elected delegate to the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in Washington in May by the board of directors at a meeting Friday evening in the Sherman house.

The directors regarded the conference of 5,000 leading business men of the country as so important that appointment of two delegates was authorized. Mr. Frank was named as one by virtue of his position as councilor and another is to be appointed. An alternate also will be named for Mr. Frank in case he is unable to attend.

There will be a meeting of councilors previous to the general convention at which matters of policy and administration of the national chamber are taken up, and Appleton's interests at that gathering will be represented by Mr. Frank. A conference of chamber of commerce secretaries also will be held, with Herbert Hoover as speaker.

Every problem that affects the welfare of the country and its commercial progress will be discussed at the Washington meetings, either in round table conferences, or at mass gatherings where the ablest men will give addresses.

3 COUNTIES SEND ASSESSORS HERE

About 65 tax assessors from Outagamie, Winnebago and Waupesa counties are attending today morning in the circuit court room of the courthouse. Equalization and personal property values were discussed in the morning session. J. R. Keating of Oshkosh, Thomas Reddin of Manitowish and John A. Lonsdorf, Appleton, supervisors of assessors in Outagamie county, addressed the meeting. T. E. Lyons, Madison, member of the Wisconsin tax commission was scheduled to give an address Saturday afternoon.

Chicago—Strike ballots were prepared Saturday to send out to the 600,000 members of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor.

The vote will be on the question of whether the men will authorize their officers to call a strike in protest against the "railways in ignoring decisions of the United States railroad labor board."

A strike vote was taken a year ago by the same organization, composed chiefly of shop workers, in protest against a cut in wages ordered by the labor board. When the time came for a strike, however, officers said that conditions were satisfactory and negotiated a peace arrangement.

The belief here is that the union officials wanted the strike vote merely for a threat to use in connection with their negotiations and that a strike would not be called even if the men voted it.

PROMINENT MADISON MAN KILLED IN AUTO SMASH

MAKING PLANS FOR PASSAGE OF BONUS BILL

Find Way to Tide Government
Over Next Few Years of Financial Stress

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1922, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington — Agreement between President Harding and administration leaders over the financing of the government deficit as well as the handling of the bonus issue appears to be in sight.

Definite plans are in the making which it is hoped will bring President Harding and leaders of the house and senate into accord and allow passage of a bonus bill within the next few weeks.

Mr. Harding has not yet consented to the plan but has encouraged senate leaders to work it out in detail and confer further with him about it. First of all the plan provides for the payment of a bonus to ex-service men this year. The president was told by Senator Watson of Indiana that there were enough votes to pass a bonus bill in the senate and, indeed, to pass the House bill if that is the only measure submitted in the face of a certain veto of the house bill Senator Watson and his associates are at work on a substitute which may win executive approval.

PROCESS COMPLEX
The process is somewhat complex but unless Secretary Mellon can find a serious flaw in it, the chances are it will go through. Here is the situation and the plan:

The Senate cannot originate revenue legislation but it can amend any act already providing for collection of revenue. So the pending tariff act will be used as a device to overcome constitutional objections. In the tariff bill will be written a clause empowering the treasury to issue certificates of indebtedness amounting to approximately $100,000,000 which is the sum now expected to be required for the first year. The authority will be given theoretically in anticipation of receipts from import duties. In other words to meet expenses of the government the treasury will borrow from the public to the amount of $100,000,000 and presumably pay it back from tariff receipts.

But that will not be necessary because by July 1 the United States government will receive $200,000,000 from Great Britain as interest on the war debt. This sum will be used to retire the treasury certificates. President Harding would not permit the treasury certificates to be issued as against receipts of interest from foreign bonds until the money is actually in the government's possession. So the treasury is taking the measure on the tariff bill.

The best course would have been to wait until July 1st and then issue treasury certificates but administration leaders are embarrassed by the action of the Republican conference of this week which has ordered the senate finance committee to report out a bonus bill within a reasonable time and this now is interpreted as meaning two or three weeks. Rather than accept the house bill which would be futile and mean a presidential veto, the senate leaders feel the treasury certificate plan will meet the wishes of the House ways and means committee as well as President Harding and would save much legislative time.

CITY OFFICERS AND C. OF C. TO GET TOGETHER

Joint Meeting to be Held Wednesday—Fix $18,000
Budget for Next Year

Mayor Henry Reiter, members of the common council and city officials will be guests of the directors of the chamber of commerce at a dinner in the French room of the Sherman house Wednesday evening, when Appleton's problems will be discussed informally.

Acceptance of the chamber's invitation was announced in the directors at the biweekly meeting Friday evening. It is the custom of the chamber to hold a gathering of this kind at least once a year.

Closer cooperation for Appleton's good is the only object of the gathering. The chamber has nothing specific to ask of the council, but has many problems on which it is working and in which city departments are interested.

Daylight saving was given approval by the directors, providing their citizens of the Fox River valley will join in its adoption. There appears little possibility that this will be accomplished this summer because it was found that Oshkosh voted down the plan in its spring election by a vote of 4 to 1, and Green Bay merchants are opposed to the change in that city.

$18,000 BUDGET
A budget of $18,000 was adopted for the year, including about the same appropriations as formerly for salaries and administration. Each of the six standing committees was allotted $600 for the next 12 months.

Harry Ingold, chairman of a special committee to cooperate with other cities to obtain lower freight rates on coal, made his report on the action of the railroad commission in granting the reductions. He showed

Reds Must First Keep Promises

Demands

Genoa—France Saturday offered conditional recognition to the Russian bolshevik government.

Louis Barthou, chief of the French delegation to the Genoa economic conference, announced a willingness to extend this recognition provided Russia carries out its promises, made in its reply to the allied demands. But first, he said, Russia must be put on probation.

Recognition was one of the counter demands made by Russia in its reply to the allied note. The soviet government agreed to acknowledge its debts provided recognition was accorded it.

France heretofore has been bitterly opposed to admitting Russia to the family of nations while the soviet regime remains in power.

Barthou's statement was made after a long conference with his colleagues, and after he had communicated with Premier Poincare in Paris.

MUST KEEP PROMISES
"We shall recognize Russia if she'll carry out her promises," he said, "but the soviet government must first be put on probation. The situation is more promising today, but we must wait and watch."

This France inaugurates a policy of "watchful waiting" which may take place in history alongside the watchful waiting policy of the United States toward Mexico.

Whether Barthou is speaking more optimistically with regard to Russia than he is justified in doing remains to be seen. It is understood Poincare is not so enthusiastic about recognizing the Russian government and it was reported Saturday he might himself come to Genoa and take a hand in the negotiations.

A veto from Paris was that Poincare would not consent to reduction of the Russian war debts, as desired by the soviet government, and that he would insist that the bolshevik assume responsibility for the debts before possibility of misunderstanding or evasion before de jure recognition is accorded. These difficulties, however, are expected to be smoothed out even if it is necessary for Poincare to come here.

RAILROAD LABOR BOARD MUZZLED BY INJUNCTION

Chicago—Injunction muzzling the United States railroad labor board, was continued in effect by Judge George A. Paige in United States district court Saturday.

The judge handed down a decision denying the petition of the railroad board to lift the injunction so that it could make public its decision in a case of dispute between the Pennsylvania railroad and its employees.

The decision will allow the board to come back into court again and present additional evidence as to why it believes the injunction should not be made permanent, as asked by the railroad.

The decision held that the railroad labor board had exceeded its powers in taking up cases which had been referred to it by only one side in a dispute.

The board can act, Judge Paige held, only in case the railroads and their employees cannot agree and in case both parties in the dispute refer the case to it for adjustment.

"I am of the opinion that congress had the deliberate intention in framing the act that company officers and agents of the men exercise every reasonable effort to avoid any interruption in business of any carrier growing out of a dispute between the carriers and their employees and the only power given the labor board under the section was to hear and decide disputes where the conferees were unable to decide and then, only in event the parties jointly referred the matter to the board," the decision said.

MEET WEDNESDAY TO START CENSUS OF WAR VETERANS

Preparations Almost Completed for Ascertaining Needs of Service Men

Most of the township organizers for the American Legion Outing service census have now been appointed and it is expected that work will be begun shortly, unless further rains continue to impede travel on country roads.

Organization for the county service census has just been completed by Miss Ann Helm, executive secretary of the County Red Cross chapter, and L. Hugo Koller, district executive, committee man of the American Legion. The plan was carried out to appoint legion post commanders in charge of the survey in localities where posts exist. In localities where there are no posts the Red Cross selected former service men to take charge.

A meeting of township organizers has been called for Wednesday, April 26, at the Appleton Red Cross center, 627 Appleton-st. Questionnaires to be used in the census will be distributed in this meeting and the general work of the survey will be discussed. Complete instructions will be given the leaders and their helpers how to conduct the campaign that aims to ascertain the needs of war veterans and the ways of assisting them.

Township organizers are the following: Deer Creek, the Legion post, assisted by Deer Creek war veterans; Maple Creek, Edward Flanagan; Liberty, New London post, R. J. Hartquist, commander; Horton, George Toman and William Rosenfeldt; Greenville, Stanley Jamison, Ellington, Milford Munley, Bovina and Maine, Sherman Dayton, Black Creek and Chocoma, Black Creek post, Dr. C. ## STROEBE USES BOAT TO GO FROM HOUSE TO BARN

Stroebe's island is flooded to such an extent that Harry Stroebe has found it necessary to live on the second floor of his resort, the water having already entered the first floor. Frank Stroebe, his brother, is surrounded by a pond several feet deep and is forced to take a boat to his barn. Both barn and house are on knolls. He also rows his milk about a mile and a half to Boss's bridge, from which point it is relayed by a friend to Werth's cheese factory.

WATER SURROUNDS LUTZ BROTHERS' ICE HOUSE

Water nearly a foot in depth surrounds the ice house of Lutz brothers near Pierck park, making it impossible for the company to get to the building with its heavy motor trucks. The ice is hauled to dry land with heavy wagons and teams and then transferred to the motor trucks. The water is six inches deep in the barn where the horses are kept, which made it necessary to move them to another building.

The Councils to Appleton from the commission's order.

Emphatic demand is to be made of Western Union Telegraph company for Sunday service in Appleton. Businessmen told of difficulty they were having in sending essential messages, saying the arrangement now in use with Ashland division depot on Sundays is unsatisfactory, and that a city this size is entitled to better service.

GET READY FOR WORK
President Luther Graef instructed all committee chairman to assemble their committees at once and organize them for the year. Programs would be made as soon as the recently issued questionnaire is returned. Mr. Graef said, and wants each group to be ready to work.

Directors, acting as a membership committee, will begin a campaign soon to enroll more businessmen in the chamber. Secretary Hugh G. Corbett has instructed to prepare a list of prospects, and also to arrange a list of workers who will make a canvass.

The committee considering a location for the chamber of commerce offices for the future was given power to select any place desired, including the present quarters in the Sherman house. Several industrial communications were turned over to the industrial committee for consideration.

GAS AND WATER DELAYS LAYING OF NEW SEWER

Gerrit Thorn of Oshkosh, who is putting in the extension of Atlantic-st. trunk sewer, has been greatly delayed in the work by gas and water, but expects to complete it next week. A leaky gas main with which his men came in contact nearly asphyxiated them on several occasions, and at another time they severed a convection which proved to be that of a catch basin and had their tunnel flooded.

Mr. Thorn also has the contract for putting in 300 feet of sewer in Bell-laire park and is engaged in getting material on the ground. He intends to transfer operations to that sewer as soon as he has finished the work on Atlantic-st. and expects to complete it by the middle of May.

HUGE DIKES AND LEVEES PROTECT MILLS IN "FLATS"

Rushing Waters Threaten Destruction of Property—
Bridges in Danger

After carrying away a crib that protected the plant of Appleton Manufacturing & Lumber Co., formerly Webster planing mill, the high water in Fox river hurried it against the upper posts on which the building rests carrying them with it. As a result the west end of the structure has settled several inches and is in grave danger in the event the water continues to rise. The company is finding it difficult to operate its plant because of high water.

The great danger to which property is subjected by high water is apparent everywhere along the river. Especially is this true in the vicinity of the upper dam. The dam at the head of the flume leading to the Atlas paper mill and electric power plant of Kimberly-Clark Co., which extends into the river to the upper end of the government dam, is subjected to terrific pressure and water is seeping through it in several places. The water is up to the top of it and is being held back by flash boards banked with bags (filled with sand). Flash board and sandbags have been placed also along the entire south side of the flume. A bridge that spans the flume is weighted down and a dozen wheelbarrows are lined up for emergency.

HOLD DOWN BRIDGE
The greatest precaution against flooding is also being taken at the plant of Fox River Paper Co. The water in some places above the mills is being held back by flash boards and sand bags and the bridge of a side-track leading to the plant against which the water is rushing with terrific force is being held in place by two loaded freight cars. Men are constantly ready for emergencies.

At the plant of the Patten Paper Co. the water is flowing over the tall race bridge which is moored to the railroad track. Water covers the rails in some places and is interfering with the operation of the plant. The level of water in the canal is regulated by the needles at Lake St. George.

BUILD LONG DIKE
The water below the first dam is a seething torrent which spends its energy in lashing a sidetrack which is held in place by freight cars and piles of rock. On the south side of the river opposite the Ashland division depot and extending for several hundred feet a dike has been constructed of earth and sandbags to hold the water back. Late Friday afternoon the water began overflowing the bank at the lower end of the railroad trestle a short distance west of the depot, but a dam hastily constructed of sandbags checked it. As a means of precaution sandbags have been piled several feet high against the west wall of the pumping station at the waterworks plant. So far the plant has had no trouble in furnishing water to patrons. The water enters the plant in a roily condition but the filtration process is less difficult than in summer time when the river is filled with vegetable growth.

W. J. Thiele of Green Bay, chief bridge inspector of the Superior division of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Co., was in Appleton Friday inspecting his company's bridge.

NEW BOOK LEADS IN POPULARITY HERE

"Saint Teresa" by Henry Sydnor Harrison is the headliner in the book list from the Public Library for the week ending April 22. Mr. Harrison, author of the well known "Queed" and "V. V. Eyes" has not written a novel for several years and reviewers claim that he has improved for his silence. The new story tells of a girl who was named for Saint Teresa and whom her friends called "the saint" although she was always getting into some kind of difficulty.

Wireless communication books and garden books will continue to be among the most popular of non-fiction books. The list follows:
Saint Teresa ..... Harrison
House of Rimmon ..... Watts
Head of the House of Caine ..... Burnett
Vacuum tubes in wireless communication ..... Bucher
The well-considered garden ..... King

Vaudeville Program

DeBourg Sisters, French Illusionists and masters of legerdemain, will headline the six act vaudeville program at Fischer's Appleton theatre tomorrow. Aside from Mme. Adelaide Herman, these ladies are the only feminine exponents of black art in vaudeville and they are said to have a most interesting and baffling routine which is laughable as well as puzzling.

Jack and Viola Gilbert will present a varied medley of athletic feats and eccentric dancing including tricks of barrel jumping. Dan Carney is credited with presenting a pianologue in which songs and comedy patter are introduced.

Honeysuckle and Violet have a blending of songs, chatter and comedy entitled "Fookosophy." Davis and Nelson have a comedy skit with a touch of sentiment "Bright Ideas" and Westcott and Carney will present "A Butterfly Wife."

Three short comedy pictures will be shown.
"Way Down East" starts a four days' engagement Wednesday, April 26th. It is D. W. Griffith's greatest achievement.

A report of the survey committee regarding a building program to alleviate the crowded condition of Appleton schools probably will be made next week. Word has been received by Prof. L. C. # Your garden won't give you something for nothing

YOU'VE got to put the best into it; above all, the best seeds.
The quality of the produce depends on the seeds. Select them with care.

Seeds that grow vigorously and produce an abundance of luscious fruit, big, well-colored, true to name—these are pure-bred seeds. Like all fine merchandise, pure-bred seeds are worth more. They prove it at harvest time.

PLANT FERRY'S SEEDS pure bred Price 10 cents per paper

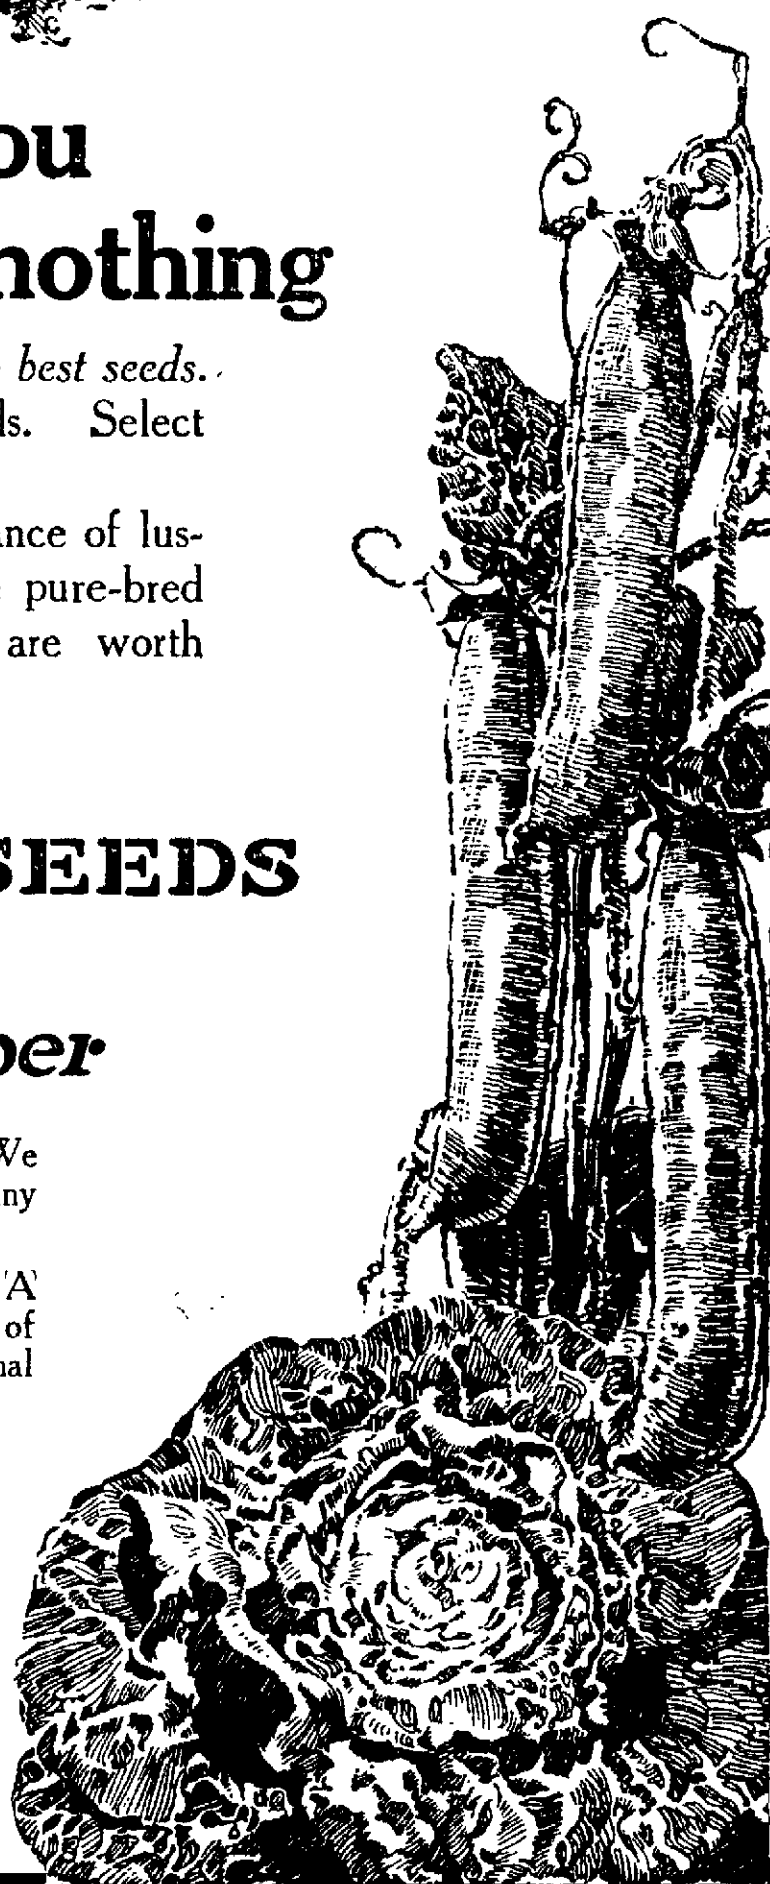

The Ferry system of breeding seeds is scientifically accurate. We have been doing it sixty years. Nothing is left to guesswork. Any plant short of perfect is uprooted.

We are continually testing, comparing, discarding, improving. A Ferry-bred tomato is no more like the pale, watery, tasteless tomato of ordinary breeding than Ferry's sweet corn is like horse corn. Exceptional quality is in all Ferry's Seeds.

Send now for Ferry's Seed Annual. Helps you get the right start for your garden. Nearly all dealers sell Ferry's pure-bred Seeds. If none is near you, write at once direct to us and we will see that you are supplied quickly.

NO CHANGE IN HIGH WATER SITUATION

Part of Old Paper Mill Flume is Carried Out—Water Roaring Over Dam

Kaukauna—Very little change in the condition of the water situation in Kaukauna was evident Saturday morning. The water was shooting over the dam at about its highest level but the sand bags are holding in the flow in low places. The gates in the navigation canal still are closed in order to hold down the level of the water and to lessen the strain upon the banks.

Little or no damage was caused Thursday evening when a flume of the old Priest pulp mill near the Kaukauna Ground Wood Pulp Co. went out. The structure carried with it a bridge which was situated about 40 feet further down the river. The flume has not been in use for sometime and was in such a weakened condition that its collapse during the high water was expected. There was practically no effect upon the level of the water.

Robbery Reveals Woman's Devotion

Eau Claire—An astonishing story of a woman's devotion to the memory of her dead husband, evidenced by a determination to disturb nothing in the house where he died came to light here on Thursday when Gilbert Stenseth, 18 years old, offered a $500 diamond for sale to a local jeweler for $15.

Stenseth was arrested and took the police to his home where the jewelry estimated at $7,000 was found.

Questioning brought from Stenseth the story that he and Reuben Woodford, who is now in jail here on a theft charge, broke into the home of Mrs. Daniel McLeod, widow of a wealthy lumberman, and found the jewelry in a bureau drawer. They also found in the same drawer $100 in bills and $115 in gold.

It developed that since Dan McLeod died, twelve or thirteen years ago, Mrs. McLeod has not only left the house vacant, but actually left lying where they were when her husband died, all the articles then in the home. Nothing was disturbed when Mrs. McLeod vacated the house after the funeral, nor has she ever entered it since then, and would not give permission to any one else to enter.

The police have taken possession of all the property taken from the McLeod house by the two boys.

SISTER KILLED BY FALL FROM CONVENT WINDOW

Fond du Lac—Residents of Fond du Lac's exclusive residence district were horrified and panic-stricken when they saw a white clad figure suddenly plunge from a fourth story window of a convent here late Thursday afternoon.

A crowd hurried to the convent lawn and Sister M. Jerome, 51 years old, cloistered at the convent for twenty-eight years, was picked up and taken to the hospital of the sisterhood. She was unconscious at the time and died a few hours later.

Sister M. Jerome had been ill since last January and, according to a statement from the convent authorities on Friday, wandered from her bed while in a delirium, and plunged through the window to the yard below. She came here from Hayes, Kas. Her parents and several brothers and sisters live in that city.

Farmer's Wife Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Well Woman

Carter's Creek, Tenn.—"Three years ago I was almost an invalid. I spent half of my time in bed, being afflicted with a trouble which women of a certain age are apt to have. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am a well woman now and have been for two years. I can work as well as any one who is younger and as I am a farmer's wife I have plenty to do for I cultivate my own garden, raise many chickens and do my own housework. You may publish this letter as I am ready to do anything to help women as I have been so well and happy since my troubles are past."—Mrs. E. T. GALLOWAY, Carter's Creek, Tenn.

Most women find plenty to do. If they are upset with some female ailment and troubled with such symptoms as Mrs. Galloway had, the smallest duty seems a mountain. If you find it hard to keep up, if you are nervous and irritable, without ambition and out of sorts generally, give the Vegetable Compound a trial.

ROWDY FANS WILL BE GIVEN GATE IN VALLEY LOOP

Abuse Of Players Will Not Be Tolerated This Year At League Games

Officials of Circuit to Bar Annoying Fans from Ball Parks; Clubs Start Training Grind Sunday.

President Kluiwin of the Fox River Valley Baseball League intends to enforce a rule this year that will meet with the approval of every fair-minded fan. Incidentally, the patrons of the game will say "amen."

The rules of baseball prohibit no spectator shall have the right to abuse either the home or visiting players. Such a tirade is always annoying to the fans who stand for fair play.

Nothing is more tiresome to the real fan, the player who is there week after week, than the boisterous fans, who, as a rule, gets very personal.

In the Fox River Valley League last season there were certain cities that suffered greatly from such a nuisance. In two or three of the cities the abuse was usually first at the visiting team. Often some thin-skinned player would be the target for a lot of personal abuse with a hope his play would be affected.

POLICE TO AID

President Kluiwin, aided by officials of the league clubs, will see that the boisterous, personal fan will be extirpated in the Fox River Valley circuit. Police officers will cooperate with the umpires in remedying the evil. If present plans carry it is the intention to have some official whose duty will be to spot the offenders. They will first be politely asked to desist. If they refuse the management will tender them their admission fee with a request they vacate the ballpark for the arrest of the offenders. Other teams of the league are made up as follows:

CLUBS START WORK

After several weeks of preparation the teams in the league are about ready to hop to it if weather conditions are favorable this week and several of the squads will engage in practice.

Spencer Heath is expected to reach Menasha Saturday and this means the baseball season has officially opened. Other members of the Menasha squad are on the job.

All Appleton players will report Sunday and meet for practice Sunday afternoon at Brandt park. Fond du Lac players will report next week. Sanders has a squad of 22 men to pick from and plans to start his wedding out process early. Kaukauna athletes will gather Sunday for their first practice of the season. Oshkosh and Green Bay will delay their initial workouts until April 30.

Y. M. C. A. Athletes Have Good Chance to Win Title at Madison Meet

With an unbroken string of victories to its credit and conceded to be one of the fastest aggregations in the state the Y. M. C. A. volleyball team will play in the state meet in Madison Saturday.

Members of the local team went to Madison Friday. They made the trip to the Capital City in automobiles driven by R. H. Starkey and H. P. Buck. The following compose the squad and all will play in tournament matches: Buck, Ellsworth, Agrell, Gochmaur, Barlow, Freude and Reuter.

Watching The Scoreboard

Yesterday's hero: The Detroit Tigers rapped out four Cleveland pitchers for sixteen hits and won their first game of the season, 15 to 1.

Bob Lamonte tried to cave in the stands with a wild throw in the first inning and let the run in which gave the Yanks a 1 to 0 victory over the Senators.

Out of thirteen hits, the Robins got only one run and the Giants nosed them out, 4 to 1. It was the sixth straight win for McGraw.

The White Sox scored six runs with a carnival in the tenth inning and beat the Browns, 10 to 5. Sister and Falk hit homers.

One single, two doubles, a home run, two passes and a triple gave the Cubs seven runs in the seventh and an 8 to 3 victory over the Reds.

EHMKE SHIFTS STYLE; FAILS TO SHOW CLASS

No brainier pitcher ever threw a ball than Christy Mathewson.

He once said that a pitcher in order to be successful must develop a certain style and stick to it.

"If you find that you are most effective as a side-arm pitcher, use that style; if you can get more on the ball over-head, use that method. Of all things don't switch from one style to another as the fancy strikes you." That is the way Mathewson puts it.

That is why Howard Ehmke of Detroit, isn't rated as one of the game's greatest pitchers.

Ehmke has no set style, he is under-hand, side-arm, or over-head, and as a result is forced to let up to get the ball over.

GIANTS MAKING RUNAWAY RACE FOR TITLE FLAG

National League Moguls Claim Chase for Pennant Will Be Over by June

By Henry L. Farrell

New York—Yelps are resounding from all the way points in the National league that the Giants are already "in" and that the pennant race will be over in the middle of June.

John McGraw is stuffing the ears of his charges to keep out the "demoralizing sounds," as he terms them.

"Our club is going good. We started stronger than last year and we're getting good results. We are after the pennant, of course, but none of us think the race is over. It's a long way to October and accidents have wrecked better chances than ours," McGraw said Saturday.

SIX STRAIGHT WINS

With six straight victories achieved out of seven games with a team that is not presenting its full strength, the Giants do look as if they are going to make a runaway for the pennant.

Nehf, Douglas and Jess Barnes are doing the bulk of the work effectively. Tony hasn't pitched yet and young Barnes and Ryan look like fine reserves. Frisch will be back soon and in Dave Robertson the club landed a good outfielder if Shinnery, who is now shining in centerfield should hit the buns.

However, it must be considered that the Giants have been feasting on eastern meat, while the Cubs and the Pirates seem to have more difficult opposition in the west.

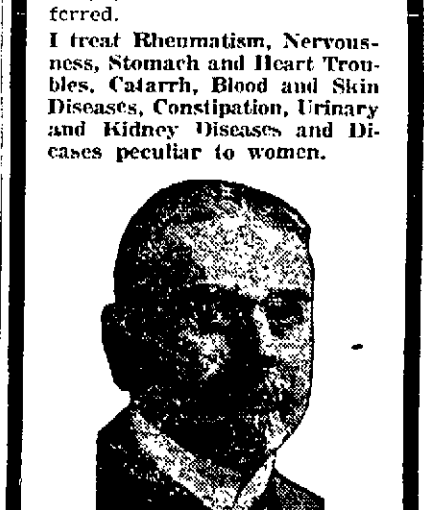

Brooklyn, which has been furnishing most of the victories for the Giants, is anything but a soft mark on paper and the team has been going badly.

The Cubs don't belong in second place and they won't be there long. The Braves and the Robins are out of position way down in the second division and they'll be mounting soon.

If the catcher's throw to intercept a base runner arrives in plenty of time to retire the runner, but the fielder loses the decision because of a palpable muff, the fielder is charged with an error and the base runner is not credited with a stolen base.

"EVERY YEAR IS A BUICK YEAR"

He stopped his swinging arm, holding his hand above the flames. "He that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God and God in him; for God is love." He opened his fingers and the crumpled letter fell and was consumed. He pushed himself up from the mantelpiece and turned over to look at Twynning and stood over him again. He patting Twynning's heaving shoulders. "There, there, Twynning. Bad luck. Bad luck. Hard. Hard. Bear up, Twynning. Soldier's death. Finest death. . . Died for his country. . . Fine boy. . . Soldier's death. . . Bad luck. Bad luck. Twynning."

Twynning, inarticulate, pushed up his hand and felt for Sabre's hand and clutched it and squeezed it convulsively.

Sabre said again, "There, there, Twynning. Hard. Hard. . . Fine death. . . Brave boy. . . He disengaged his hand and turned and walked very slowly from the room.

He went along the passage, past Mr. Fortune's door towards that which had been his own, still walking, very slowly and with his hand against the wall to steady himself. He felt deathly ill.

He went into his own room, unentered by him for many months, now his own room no more, and dropped heavily into the familiar chair at the familiar desk. He put his arms out along the desk and laid his head upon them. Oh, cumulative touch! He began to be shaken with onsets of emotion, as with seas. Oh, cumulative touch!

The communicating door opened and Mr. Fortune appeared. He stared at Sabre in astounded indignation. "Sabre! You here! I must say—I must admit—"

Sabre clutched up his dry and terrible sobbing. He turned swiftly to Mr. Fortune and put his hands on the arms of the chair to rise.

"A curious look came upon his face. He said, 'I say, I'm sorry. I'm sorry. I can't get up.'"

Mr. Fortune boomed, "Can't get up?"

"I say—No, I say, I think something's happened to me. I can't get up."

The door opened, Hapgood came in and Nona.

Sabre said, "I say, Hapgood—Nona—Nona! I say, Nona. I think something's happened to me. I can't get up."

A change came over his face. He collapsed back in the chair.

"Marko! Marko!"

She who thus cried ran forward and threw herself on her knees beside him, her hands stretched up to him.

Hapgood turned furiously on Mr. Fortune. "Go for a doctor! Go like hell! Sabre, Sabre, old man!"

"Hemorrhage on the brain," said the doctor. "Well, if there's no more effusion of blood, you quite understand me. I saw it there isn't any of it. He's been through any kind of strain."

"Trouble," said Hapgood. "Strain. He's been in hell—right in."

When he was removed and they had left him, Nona said to Hapgood as they came down the steps of the County hospital. "There was a thing he was so fond of, Mr. Hapgood: . . . O Wind."

If winter comes, can Spring be far behind?

"It comes to me now. There must be a turning now. If he dies . . . still, a turning."

CHAPTER VIII

Hapgood across the coffee cups, the liquor glasses and the cigarette, watched a solemn head at that friend of his, newly returned from a long visit to America. He wagged a solemn head.

"She's got her divorce, that wife of his."

"I've told you in my letters how he went on after that collapse, that brain hemorrhage. I told you we got Ormond Clive on to him. Clive was a friend of that Lady Tybar. She was with Sabre all the time. Pretty well every day I'd look in. Every day Ormond Clive would come. Time and again we'd stand around the bed and watch, watching, impenetrable and extraordinary business! There was his body, alive, breathing. His mind, his consciousness, his ego, his self, his whatever you like to call it—not there. Away. Absent. Not in that place."

"Yesterday Ormond Clive said Sabre might be cautiously approached about things. For three weeks past Clive's not let me or that Lady Tybar—see him. Yesterday we were permitted again; and I took steps to be there first. 'You know your wife's divorced you, old man?' He said painfully. 'Yes, I know. I remember that.'"

"Of course it will come back to him in time that the business hadn't happened before his illness. In time he'll begin to grope after detailed recollection, and he'll begin to realize that it must have happened while he was ill. There'll be another thing, too. He'll find his wife has married again. Yes, fact, I heard in a roundabout way that she's going to marry an old neighbor of theirs, chap called Major Millet, Hopscotch Millet, old Sabre used to call him. However, that's not the thing—that will have happened and will make him thank God. What do I mean? Well, that's telling, and I don't feel it's quite mine to tell. Tell you what, you come around and have a look at the old chap tomorrow. I dare bet he'll be on the road towards it by then and perhaps tell us himself."

Sabre was sitting propped up in bed awaiting who next might come.

The nurse had told him he was to have visitors that morning. The door opened and one came in. Nona.

She said to him, "Marko!"

He had no reply that he could make. She slipped off a fur that she was wearing and came and sat down beside him. She wore what he would have thought of as a kind of waistcoat thin, cut like his own waistcoat but short; and opened above like a waistcoat but turned back in a white rolled edge, revealing all her throat.

She had a little close-fitting hat bandied with flowers and a loose veil depended from it. She put back the veil. Beauty abode in her face as the scent within the rose. Hapgood had said, and as perfume deeply inhaled, her serene and tender beauty penetrated Sabre's senses, propped up, watching her.

He had something to say to her. "How long is it since I have seen you, Nona?"

"It's a month since I was here, Marko."

"I don't remember it."

"You've been very ill; oh, so ill."

He said slowly, "Yes, I think I've been down in a pretty deep place."

"You're going to be splendid now, Marko."

He did not respond to her tone. He said, "I've come on a lot in the last few weeks. I'd an idea you'd been about me before that. I'd an idea you'd be coming again. There's a thing I've been thinking out to tell you."

She breathed, "Yes, tell me, Marko."

But he did not answer.

She said, "Have you been thinking, in these weeks, while you've been coming on, what you are going to do?"

His hands, that had been crumpling up the sheet, were now laid flat before him. His eyes, that had been averting from her, faced ahead. "There is nothing I can do, in the way you mean."

She was silent a little time.

"Marko, we've not talked at all about the greatest thing—of course they've told you—the Armistice, the war won. England, your England, that you loved so, at peace, victorious; those dark years done. England, her own again. Your dear England, Marko."

He said, "It's no more to do with me. Frightful things have happened to me. Frightful things."

She went on, "There's your book—your 'England.' You have that to go to now. And all your plans—do you remember telling me all your plans? Such splendid plans. And I loved all of your 'England' that you loved writing so."

"I can't. It can't be."

She began again to speak. He said, "I don't want to hear those things. They have nothing to do with me."

He then aroused himself and spoke and had a firmness in his voice. "And I'll tell you this," he said. "This was what I said I had to tell you. When you go, you are not to return. I don't want to see you again."

She drew a breath, standing herself. "Why not, Marko?"

"Because what's been has been. Done. I've been through frightful things. They're on me still. They always will be on me. But from everything that belongs to them I want to get right away. And I'm going to."

"What are you going to do?"

"I don't know. Only get right away."

She got up. "Very well. I understand. She turned away. 'It grieves me, Marko. But I understand. I've always understood you.' She turned again and came close to him. 'That's what you're going to do. Do you know what I'm going to do?' He shook his head. He was breathing deeply.

"I'm going to do what I ought to have done the minute I came into the room. I hadn't quite the courage. This."

She suddenly stooped over him. She enfolded him with her arms and slightly raised him to her. She put her lips to his and kissed him and held him so.

"You are never going to leave me, Marko. Never, never, never, till death."

He cried, "Beloved, Beloved," and clung to her. "Beloved, Beloved," and clung to her.

DRYS PREPARING FOR SHARP FIGHT IN FALL PRIMARY

Prohibition Forces Will Battle Candidates With Beer Sympathies

Madison.—State and national Anti-Saloon leagues today gave voice to a call to battle against their traditional enemy.

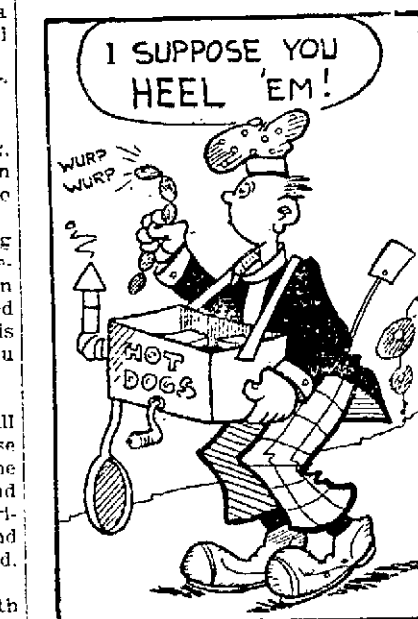

They will fight with all their might the selection at the primaries all over the country, of any candidates who sympathize with the light wines and beer campaigns.

A thirteen-state district convention of Anti-Saloon League workers to be held in Milwaukee May 25 and 26, at which plans for promoting these campaigns all over the middle west will be discussed, was announced here Thursday.

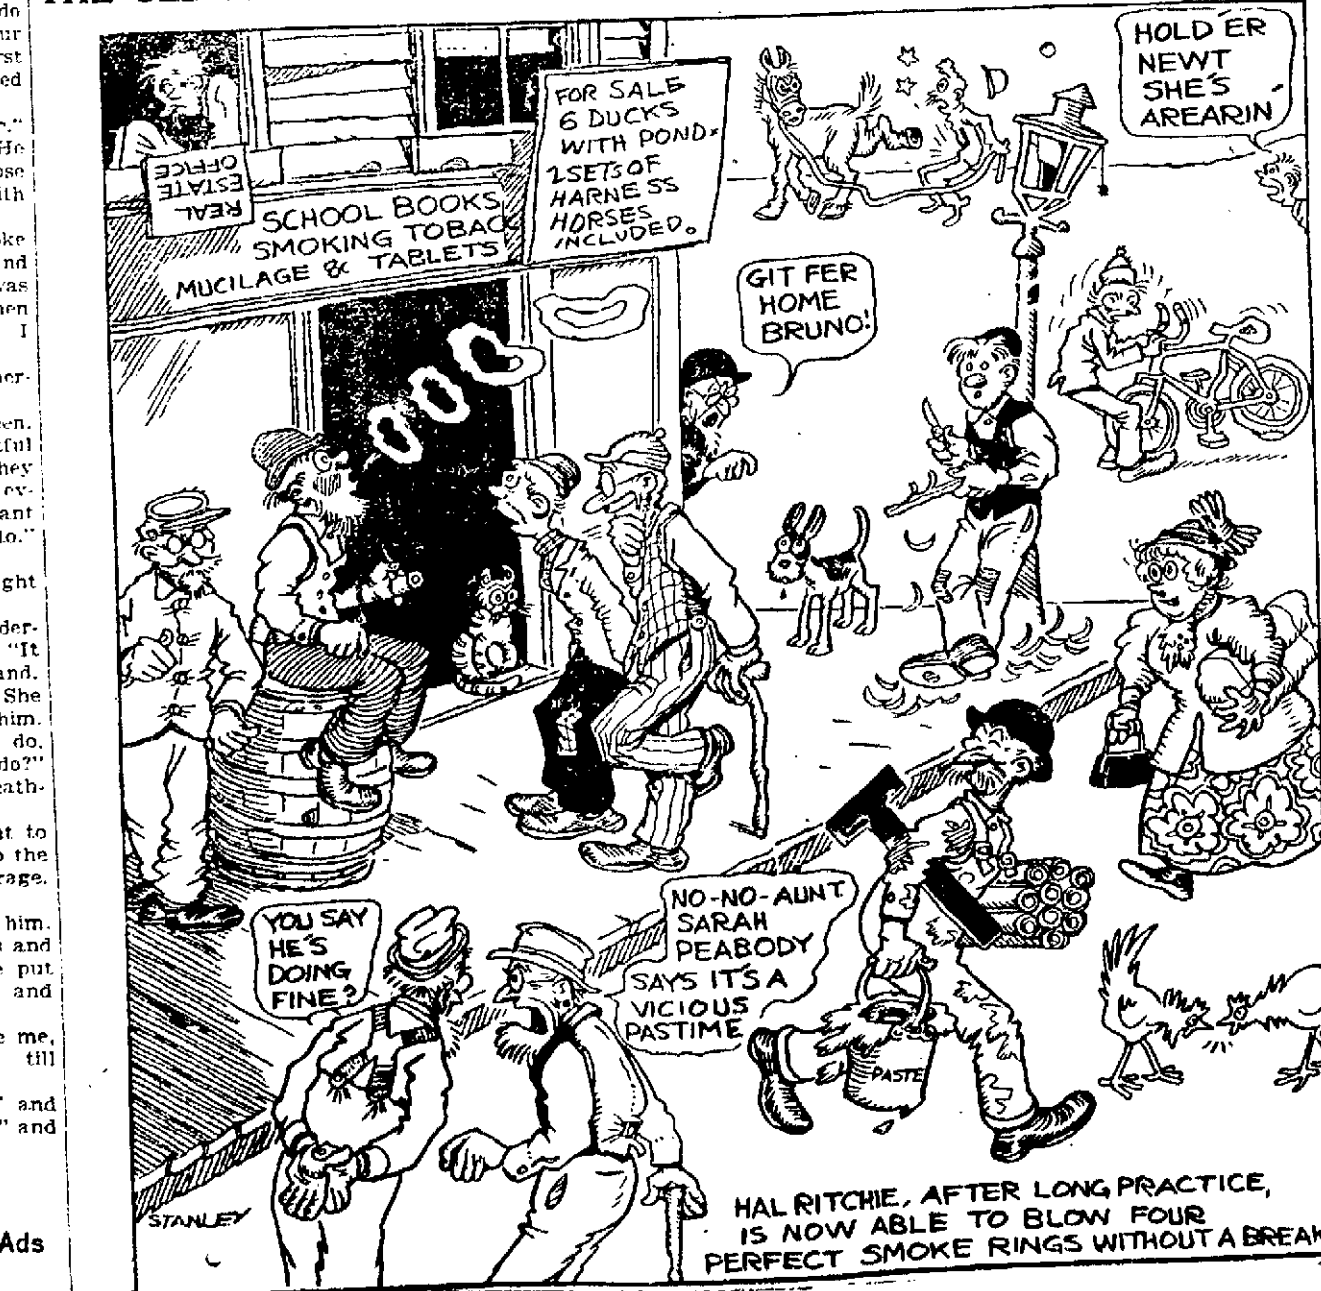

This middle-western meeting will follow immediately after the Wisconsin prohibition enforcement convention, to be held in Milwaukee May 23 and 24. States represented at the district convention of the league, which, it is announced, is one of eight to be held over the country between now and primary-time, are:

Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, and North and South Dakota.

DEVOTE WEEK TO STUDYING NEED OF
CHURCH EDUCATION

Children's Week Will be Observed from April 30 to May 6—Program Planned

The attention of the whole nation will be called to the need for more religious education for children when programs are given throughout the country during Children's week beginning April 30 and continuing through the first week in May. Churches everywhere have been asked to formulate plans for interesting all men and women in their part in educating the children religiously. Plans are already underway at the Methodist church for observation of the week, while other churches also may have programs.

Some of the objects of the week are to create a community consciousness of the need for religious education, the organization of a Church Community Parent-Teachers association with regular meetings, making provision for supervised play, demanding better movies for children, procuring more and better reading for children, the establishing of a vacation school of religion, closer cooperation of constructive forces which touch child life and the united effort to bring all children in touch with some church. Appleton has already demonstrated its belief in the need for religious education by supporting the week day Bible school and the vacation religious school. Some of the other purposes are also being worked out here.

Several Wisconsin cities are planning a Sunday school exhibit while most of them will have mass meetings. At these meetings committees will be appointed to obtain statistics concerning the recreational opportunities of the children and their affiliation with churches.

OFFER $50 FOR BEST
REVIEW OF NEW BOOK

Several journalism students of Lawrence college will try for the prize of $50 which is being offered to journalism students for the best review of Samuel Hopkins Adams novel, "Success". The prize is being offered by the Houghton Mifflin company to students in journalism in all parts of the country, who will write a review of this new story of newspaper life. The manuscripts which are limited to not more than 500 words must be in by May 1. Mr. Adams himself will be one of the judges and will be assisted by A. Hamilton Gibbs.

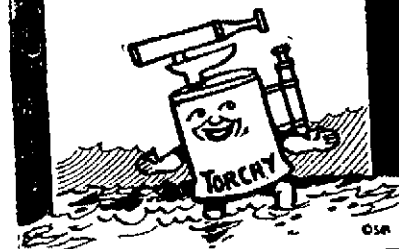

The story was listed Saturday as one of the best circulators at the public library for the week ending April 15. It is said that its pictures of newspaper life with all its attendant joys and sorrows are true to life and interesting to the newspaper man, journalism student and the public in general which does not know the newspaper office officially.

BROOMS
When sweeping a dusty carpet it is well to slightly wet the broom. This prevents dust from spreading around the room.

MATCHES
Many accidental fires are caused because matches are left in an open place in the kitchen. It is wise to keep them in a box that has a cover.

OUR FIRST YEAR

Chapter 15 — Who Teaches Flappers

By a Bride

START THIS TODAY—
The bride and her five girl friends are expressing their opinions on love and marriage. The bride and her husband are trying to live up to a pact under which they maintain individual freedom. Bonny, the flapper has just quoted the love doctrines of George Bradshaw, a 42-year-old divorcee court graduate.

"I've an idea that George Bradshaw knows more about what he calls 'love' than all of us put together," said Jeanne Allison. "I've an idea that he doesn't tell it all to Bonny."

"It's plain that we girls have got to do something to counteract George's instructions," suggested Mary Smith.

"Girls, Mary's right! If Bonny Tearle ever should make any mistakes, we'd have her sins on our own souls!"

One never can tell when Jeanne is joking and when she is abominably sarcastic.

"Stop giggling, Bonny! Get ready, girls. Each in her turn, instruct the infant! You begin, Mary!"

"Bonny Tearle! I say again and it's all I'm going to say, that a girl of your age ought not to discuss love with men. Especially not with old men. Only with women. And when you're bothered, come to me, dear!"

"Thank you, old dear!" murmured Bonny. Then with sudden alarm, "But—then—I'd turn out just like you! Just like all of you! And the boys say that the reason I'm so interesting is because I'm not like other girls!"

"Sounds familiar! We've all heard that, Bonny!" Jeanne shrugged a shoulder scornfully. "Listen, all of you! If I don't talk above love with the men, they'll never take me anywhere. I couldn't keep a man friend if I didn't chatter sentiment to him!"

Bonnie flushed as she confessed. "You certainly ought to know. You're called the most popular flapper in this end of town," mourned Mary Smith.

Conversation buzzed while I changed the plates. Evidently my luncheon, if informal, was no failure. "We girls have discovered a big fact, Peg!" whispered Mary. She was helping me in the pantry to serve the sweet.

"What is it?"

"We've found why flappers act as they do!"

"Well, why do they?"

"They will not listen to women. Only to men. They side-stepped all that teachers, mothers, sisters, tell them. And isn't it awful!"

"Girls learned about love from older women for centuries!" I replied as I arranged by beautiful new Wedgewood cubs on a tray. "Isn't it time they had the other side?"

"Well! If Bonny Tearle is an example of what men can do when they educate their sweethearts—"

The remainder of Mary's sarcasm was lost as the pantry door swung behind me.

As soon as she and I had taken our places at the table, the young person who had occasioned our discussion demanded:

"Peg! The other girls have finished their lesson on love. And they've nearly finished me, too. It's your turn now. What are you going to advise poor me?"

I couldn't answer Bonny immediately. I felt awfully solemn. It seemed to me that beneath our foolery ran a vein of the serious.

It occurred to me that women everywhere are asking what they can do to make love last longer; what they can do to be happy when love fails.

Adventures Of
The Twins

Nature's School

A queer thing happened when Buskins and the Twins arrived in the strange new country above the clouds on their dandelion parachutes. The little dandelion parachutes (or seeds) suddenly became alive and Nancy and Nick saw that they had kind bright faces, and arms and legs and feet.

"Will you please excuse us now," said the little seeds. "We are going to Mother Nature's school and we are afraid that we'll be late."

"Oh, yes indeed!" said Nancy politely. "Go right along. I'm sorry I've kept you. And thank you for bringing us."

"That's all right," they answered, hurrying off.

"We're going to visit your school," said Buskins, "and if you are late, I'll tell Mother Nature all about it." Then to the children, "I'll tell you more about this place as we go along. You see, Mother Nature has a school here for the little seeds that fly, so they'll know how to grow. Many of the seeds have wings, you know, or something just as good, that they can fly with like your parachutes. The dandelion seeds are only one kind.

"There are also the thistle-seeds, the milk-weed seeds, and the seeds of many kinds of trees and flowers. Some other seeds fly in a different way. They have jiggers on them and stick to the birds' wings and feathers. When the birds fly, the seeds hang on until they come to a place where they wish to grow, then they drop off."

"But here we are now, at the gate of Mother Nature's school. Come on, let us go in. I'm sure we are welcome. Mother Nature isn't easily disturbed and she'll be glad to see us."

Buskins opened the gate and they all walked into a large garden where little seeds sat in rows and a beautiful fairy sat at a desk.

Salads

WHILE fresh vegetables are rather high early in the season, try using them in salads. A small amount goes much farther this way than if the vegetables are served as a vegetable with the meat.

Do without dessert if necessary, but serve some sort of green salad at least once a day during the spring months.

And a salad need not be an elaborate affair swathed in a rich mayonnaise dressing. A dinner salad is preferably composed of salad greens, with maybe a strip or two of asparagus or some other fresh vegetable to give tone, and plain French dressing.

If the greens are crisp and dry and the dressing carefully seasoned the perfection of the salad is assured.

To prepare salad greens for a salad: If possible wash each leaf under running water, holding the leaf open and at a sharp angle. Tiny, invisible insects are washed off and any sand or dirt is carried away by the force of the water.

Shake each leaf as free from water as possible and put on a clean dry towel to drain. Wrap loosely in the hour or longer.

The lettuce or other salad plant becomes very crisp under this treatment and seems to have a fresh dewiness quite impossible to attain by washing and drying each leaf with a towel. The French housewife has a wire salad basket. She puts her carefully washed greens in this wire box and whisks them rapidly. This dries the plants quickly, but fails to give the crispness.

Always pull off any wilted edges of the leaves with the fingers. Shred the plants with a silver knife. Never leave the salad till the last minute when preparing a meal. It takes time to wash and crisp salad plants.

Do this right after lunch and have everything ready to put together when needed. A green salad with a French dressing should not stand after being mixed for the oil and vinegar wilt the leaves.

There are many salad plants to choose from. Try them all and avoid monotony. Keep this list in mind when you go to market and be on the lookout for something different:

Of course lettuce comes first. Most persons prefer head lettuce, but leaf lettuce contains quite as many of the much talked of vitamins as head. Water cress, curly endive, romaine, French endive, chicory, young dandelions, parsley, mint nasturtiums, tender young onion tops—these should be used alone or in combination.

Hard-boiled eggs add to the attractiveness and nourishment of any green salad served with French dressing. And speaking of hard-boiled eggs, remember that it takes longer to cook a very fresh egg than it does one three or four days old.

Let the eggs stand in boiling water

30 minutes. Do not let the water bubble, but keep at the simmering point.

FRENCH DRESSING

Chill the bowl or saucer or mixing bottle. Chill the oil and vinegar. Put one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, three tablespoons oil, one tablespoon vinegar in mixing bowl and shake vigorously. Or put the salt, pepper and oil in a bowl and add the vinegar slowly, beating constantly with a silver fork or a Dover beater.

Many women like to mix the dressing at the table when the salad is served. A pinch of powdered sugar and a suggestion of mustard may be used with salt and pepper. Olive oil is expensive, but of course desirable. However, there are several vegetable oils on the market that make delicious dressings. Try until you find the oil you personally like the best.

Be sure the oil you buy is fresh. If it is put up in tin cans see that the can looks new and is without "dents."

Always store oil in a cold place. Wipe the can carefully before putting away after using and be sure the cap is screwed on tightly. Oil becomes tainted quickly and these precautions are simple but effective.

Any garment will hold its press much longer if allowed to hang for a short time after being pressed. Wearing immediately shortens the life of creases considerably.

Copyright, 1922, by the Architects' Small House Service Bureau.

The roomy sun porch will prove a most practical and pleasing feature of this five room home. It is a 12 month-a-year porch. In summer the casement windows can be swung open to catch the breeze from three directions. In winter, if the porch has a south exposure, it will be warmed by the sun, even so, it is advisable to have the porch warmed by the heating plant. The sun room opens immediately into the living and dining rooms by means of glazed French doors, thus giving additional width to the house.

This home is a type which people invariably describe as homelike because it has such an inviting, comfortable atmosphere. Features that add charm to the exterior are the gambrel roof with wide dormers, front and back, and a handsome entrance doorway with two side benches.

This home is of frame construction with sided exterior, shingle roof, brick base and brick chimney. Stock sizes of lumber, millwork and standardized materials wherever possible are used. This eliminates waste in labor, materials and lowers building costs.

Study of the plan will show how impressively the living room, dining room and sun porch open up into what really is one big room. The living room has two features—the open stairway and fireplace. The fireplace, topped by a wide wood mantel shelf, is so located that one chimney serves fireplace, range and furnace.

The coat closet at the entrance serves as a convenient repository for wraps. The kitchen is planned to economize steps and to speed up housekeeping. Outside icing is provided. Bedrooms on the second floor offer cross ventilation and splendid closet space. A linen closet in the hall and painstaking planning of bathroom fixtures features sometimes overlooked in small homes.

THE HOME HOT BLAST FURNACE SOLVES EVERY HEATING PROBLEM

For more than six months of each year we are dependent upon artificial heat to keep our homes comfortable.

Many people are perplexed when it comes to choosing a furnace but they need not be if they will only bear in mind the results they expect to get from a furnace.

The first requirement of a good furnace is that it must adequately heat the building in which it is placed.—Efficiency.

Second, to furnish this heat the furnace should burn as little fuel as possible.—Economy.

Third, it should be so easy to run that any member of the family can tend it.—Simplicity.

Fourth, the furnace should be so well constructed that it will require the least repairs and upkeep.—Durability.

Such a furnace—Efficiency, Economy, Easy to run and Durable—is a good investment.

Have this Furnace installed by The Furnace Men in The Furnace Business.
